Film Synopsis

Gringo Wedding is a romantic comedy set across two continents, where Rebecca Gonzalez (Ana Lucia Dominguez) and Matt Goldman (Justin Kane) meet through the dating agency, "Agencia del amor" (Agency of Love). The agency is run by a cast of misfits, geared to make love a reality for many misguided souls. Matt and Rebecca soon fall in love despite the fact that they do not have a common language. Javier (Sebastian Boscan) steps in as the translator extraordinaire to bring the couple together through his over the top translations and hilarious encounters. The conflict begins when the families of Rebecca and Matt oppose their wedding plans. The parents can only see disaster with the differences in religion, culture, and language. Matt and Rebecca, armed with their flamboyant translator Javier, venture into the pursuit of happiness and a long life together. Gringo Wedding is full of laughter and romance, but at the same time a thought-provoking story where we witness the common values of love and friendship.

About The Director

Tas Salini

Writer / Producer / Director

Tas Salini came to film through teaching photography and video production in England, (where he grew up), Austria and now in the United States. He studied psychology at Leicoster University (England), Human Relations at Webster University (Austria), and got his Masters in Motion Pictures at University of Miami (USA). He has directed well over 100 music videos that have aired on MTV (USA), MTV (Europe), MTV Español, BET, The Box and hosts of cable and satellite channels worldwide. He has produced and directed five documentaries that include 'Raps Most Wanted' (A*Vision/Atlantic Music Group) featuring Ice-T, Chuck D (Public Enemy); Too Short and Ghetto Boys; 'Inner Circle: A 20 Year Journey' (WEA/Sweden) featuring the Grammy award winning reggae band, Inner Circle; 'Lele Jiha: Making of An Album' (Dino Music/Germany); and 'The Pan Am Story' that aired on PBS. This multiple award winning documentary tells the rise and demise of the legendary airline Pan American Airways.

Salini wrote, produced and directed a short film "The Outsider" (16 mm, 45 min) that won many awards. For 'Gringo Wedding' once again he wears three hats and has directed a warm, hilarious romantic comedy set in two continents: South America and USA. He meticulously chose his cast, crew and locations and has delivered a very entertaining and memorable film.

He has won numerous Crystal Reel and Telly awards for directing and producing several projects. In addition to being an avid filmmaker, he teaches television and video production at The Art Institute of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.
